

IGBC Pre-certified Projects: Renewal Process

(with effect from 1 Sep 2020)

Case 1: Project submitting periodic six-monthly reports regularly

- The project owner can write to IGBC to re-validate / renew the project pre-certification based on the virtual site visit. The certificate validity would be extended by one-year with no additional fee.
- This process would continue till the project submits for final certification.
 - Example: A pre-certified project wherein a certificate is about to expire, the project certificate validity is extended by one year based on submission of periodic project updates every six months.
 - For pre-certified township, the validity would be extended by two years

Case 2: Six-monthly project updates NOT submitted by project to IGBC

➤ Renewal of Precertification:

The project team has not submitted the six-monthly project updates during the 3 years period. In case such projects need extension for precertification certificate validity.

- The project needs to apply for precertification again with standard fee. The project would be treated as new project with same registration number.

(OR)

➤ Opting for Final Certification:

The project can apply for Certification closer to the completion of the project.
